

1. Which of the following policies would be most likely to support economic growth in a developing nation?
- (a) increased government control of key industries and resources
  - (b) government policies aimed at national self-sufficiency
  - (c) tariffs on imports to support local industries
  - (d) greater integration into the world economy