

12. When Australia records a surplus on its capital and financial account

- (a) capital machinery used to produce other goods has usually been imported from overseas.
- (b) Australian investment overseas has been greater than foreign investment in Australia.
- (c) Australian holdings of foreign assets have not increased as much as foreign holdings of Australian assets.
- (d) equity has been the preferred form of foreign investment rather than debt.