

19. Fiscal policy has a long decision lag compared with monetary policy because
- (a) economic indicators may be out of date when policy makers analyse data.
  - (b) government proposals must normally be agreed to by both Houses of Parliament.
  - (c) decisions impact household spending and business behaviour with a lag.
  - (d) budgetary decisions require approval from the Reserve Bank of Australia (RBA).